Identity Theft:

Like other forms of white collar crimes, identity theft can occur from the suspect obtaining information such as name, date of birth, social social security number, health insurance information, or other personal identifying information. Use the only credit report system authorized by the US Government, and running this report will not affect your credit. You are provided by law one report from each credit bureau once a year. I recommend that you run one credit report every 4 months.

Spot Fake Emails:

Most computer threats require assistance from an unknowing victim. This is a great activity to help learn to spot fake emails. Remember, when in doubt, it's FAKE.

See If You've Been Compromised:

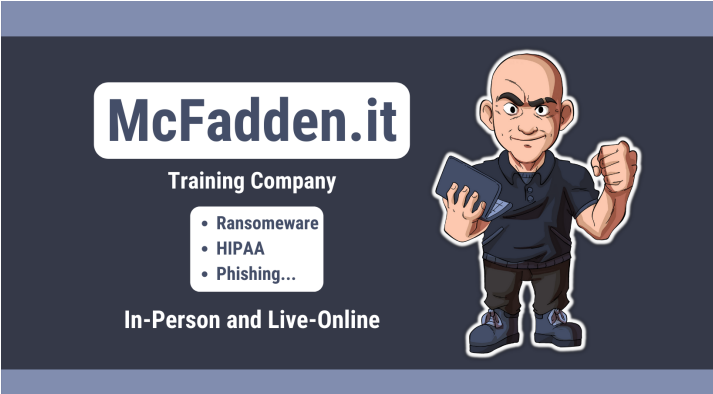

Check to see if any of the sites you use have been known to be compromised. This web site allows you to put in your phone number or email address. If you discover that your phone number or email address was associated with one of those web sites, change that password immediately. Better yet, if it's a web site or account you no longer use, delete the account.

Online Safety for Children:

All of us have young ones in our lives (grandkids, kids, nieces, nephews) even if you don't have children of your own. One of my other places of employment is over at Cyber Safe Teen Nation (for Parents of Online Teens And Tweens). We are all retired officers who worked crimes against children and it's run by Michael Lemon. Our mission is educating children and adults on the dangers of the internet.
